Hello! I'm a dynamic biomedical engineering student with a unique flair for blending science and art. Beyond my academic pursuits in understanding and innovating healthcare technologies, I bring a creative dimension to my work through my passion and experience in graphic design. This dual expertise allows me to communicate complex scientific ideas with clarity and aesthetics. Eager to bridge the gap between functionality and visual appeal in medical solutions, I aspire to contribute to the field by designing impactful interfaces, educational materials, and visually engaging presentations that enhance the overall healthcare experience.
